STATE PAPER.

HAGUE GAZETTE, Sept. 3. 1787. Letter from the Lords of the States of Guelderland, to the Lords of the States of Holland, dated Aug.

16, 1787.
Nuble and Mighty Lords,
Particular Friends, Neighbours, and Confederates,
NOT having been affembled fince the month the object of our deliberation on your letter of the 14th July last, in which you have been pleased to send us, by way of advice, a copy of the resolution taken by you the fame day, as an answer to the memorial presented to you by Mr de Thulemeyer, Envoy Extraordinary of his Majesty the King of Prussa, concerning the accident which happened some time ago to the Princes of Orange and Naffau, in her journey through the Province of Holland.

Consequently we deal of the pieces subjoined, with that freedom which you know is natural to us, and with that energy which ought justly to be exeited in us by the ideas of two most important events, and with the control of the pieces subjoined, with that energy which ought justly to be exeited in us by the ideas of two most important events, and with the control of the pieces subject to the pie directly opposite, viz. the preservation or the ruin of this Republic; the issue of one of the two will undoubtedly take place in a very short space of time, the hope of the former having already almost disappeared, and the sear of the latter being too well founded.

" After having conceived hopes, that the amicable and fincere reprefentations contained in our letter of the 27th May last, would have engaged you to pacific fentiments, and to refolutions fit for pre-ferving the union, and which might fecure the high Confederacy against all erroneous undertakings and views; we are very forry to fee you continue not only in your former measures, passing from one infraction of the Union to another, but still that you offend of new, by your treatment towards the illu-flrious person of her Royal Highness the Princess of Orange and Nassau, all the confederates, in the fpouse of their Hereditary Stadtholder, Captain General, and have even exposed all the good Bourgeofies, and the whole Province of Holland, to the referement of his Majesty the King of Prussia, one of its most powerful and well inclined neigh-

"We had already learned the opposition and hinderance given to the passage of her Royal Highness through the Province of Holland, by letters from that Princess, as well as by his Most Serene Highness, and by our Deputy to the Confederacy, when we received your letter dated the 14th curt, with the extract fubjoined to it of your resolutions, taken the fame day, contained in your answer to the memorial of Mr de Thulemeyer, Envoy Extra-ordinary of his Majesty the King of Prussia.

"As the said answer of your Mightinesses is only addressed to the faid Monarch, and that no essential fruit will be reaped from it, but an alleviation of a discontent and resentment already denounced, which will only depend on his examination and judgment. we have thought we ought not to enter into an exact detail of all the particular principles with which you endeavoured to justify your conduct observed in that respect. We think that it will suffice to declare freely to your Mightinesses, that very far from having found in it, in general, the fmallest alleviation, we have only observed, on the contrary, a fingular additional injury to the offence which has been done to her Royal Highness, and in her illustrious perfon, to every province in particular, and to all the Confederacy.

" For, although you had at first approved of the conduct of your Committees, and delayed, on the contrary, more than the nature of the affair feenied to permit or require, your refolation on the fubjed of the journey of her Royal Highness; we, however, flattered ourselves, that you would not have opposed that having been underraken fuddenly, and without previous advice, it would have prevented the means of taking fudden and flrong measures against every disturbance of tranquistity and good order, which, you were to suppose, must in reality have taken place in your Province on the appearance of the Princess. We believe, that you might have been able to have made necessary dispositions with respect to that, from the time that has elapsed; or that, you of your own accord, would have offered a passage after the most suitable excuses as to the pass, to a Princess, who, as your Mightinesses expressly testify in two different places of your resolution, would have consistency by actions at her arrival, her laudable sentiments and her pacific views.

"But, though we do not believe by this conduct,

"But, though we do not believe by this conduct, the offence committed entirely repaired, but only a little allesized, we find ourselves all at once deceived in that especiation by your sudden resolution, the principal contents of which amounts only to this, that her soyal Highness cannot, in any manner, be admitted into Holland, and above all as a mediatrix; and that the stop put to her journey can be only attributed to the my lery which has de ri-

be only attributed to the mythery which has de rived you of giving revious notice of it.

"What is offessive in this thesis, and the insufficiency of its principles, are so palpable, that we think it entirely ornecessary to refute it. We shall only content ourselves with testisying our surprise at the manner by which you seem to have wished to render us and our conduct towards his Majesty the King of Prussa sufficiency, as particularly hostile towards the Province of Holland.

"Your Mightinesses, to excuse your conduct.

"Your Mightinesses, to excuse your conduct, appeal, among others, to the discontent of his Serene Highness towards the Sovereign of Hillind, accom make the Province of Holland experience the effects of that discontent, and even to employ the forces of the Republic that are under bis direction.

"We cannot understand any thing else by these words, but that the use which his Serene Highness has already made, or is flill to make of the militia of the State at the entreaty of the High Confederates, or of any one of them, to maintain their legal Sovereignty, is looked upon by your Mightiness, as sleep that are directed to make the Province of Holland experience the effects of his discontent.

"We ourselves, Noble and Mighty Lords, entreated last year his Serene Highness, as Captain

General of that Province, to put garrsons into the towns of Hattern and Elbourg. We know how your Mightinesses have been affected by it, and this Series to but, pray what effects of discontent could his Series Highness make the Province of Lillandex. perience, or even the Assembly of your Mightinesses.

perience, or even the Affembly of your Mightineffes in executing our orders?

"The illicit protestation granted to the illegal regency of the city of Utrecht, the unjust orders given to the troops of the Generalite, and other violent infractions done by you to the Umon, have made the most part of the Confederates averse to your measures; "the States of the Province of Utrecht in particular, have found themselves under the necessity of poverfully defending their Sovereignty with all the troops which they had, or which they could acquire, not only against the said city of they could acquire not only against the said city of Utrecht, but even against all that your High Migh-tinesses have been able to collect to defend it, and have made arbitrarily enter upon the territory of a free and Sovereign Confederare. His Royal High nefs, in confederace of his oath and of his duty, having an abhorience of all that which might strike a gainst the sacred tie of the Union, and being called upon by the Lords of the States of the Province of Utrecht, as Captain General of that Province, to protect them, fatisfies in that his facred duty, and follows, fo far as appears to us, the internal voice of his own conference,

"But, is it not most abfurd to conclude from thence, that he has been willing thereby to make the Province of Holland, or your High Mightinefles feel any effect of his discontent?

"We flatter ourfelves, that your Mightineffes will excuse as for having a little enlarged in parti cular upon that accusation, seeing that the troops of the Republic, which are, as you are pleafed to express yourselves, at the disposal of his Serene Highnefs, have been put in a great measure by ourselves under his direction, and that thereby the accusation of your Mightinesses against the use that has been made of them, could not fail to be particularly of-fensive to us, if, after what has been faid, written, and done against us, we were to pay any attention to fuch trifles.

" In reality, Mighty Lords, we have had all a long fo many repeated reasons to complain of your conduct with respect to us, and all the Confederacy, that we should have some reason of doubting, if you intend to continue bound to the Union; that is to fay, to the prefervation of your engagements and your conditions.

"Befides the oppolition made to our yachts and veffels upon your rivers, and befides all that for which we have required fatisfaction by former letwhich we have required latisfaction by former let-ters, you have not only lately publicly attacked by your troops and armed people, on the indisputable territory of one of the Mighty Confederates of the Lords of the States of Utrecht, the troops of the Generalite, and thereby violated at once both that tertitory and the laws of the Union; but your Mightineffes fill continue to render our coafts, and those of the Province of Utrecht, and the navigation of all the Confederates, dangerous on the Zuy der Zee, by armed veffels, which cannot and ought not, as well as the officers who command them, to be given up to the disposal of any one whatever, but so that of all the Confederates, and to their particustral confederates and to their particustral confederates.

ao that of all the Confederates, and to their particular colleges or admiralties."

"We cannot reconcile these steps, as well as the binderance of transporting different effects, with that close connection and mutual union which has been guaranteed and secured by the first article of the Union. Your High Mightinesses miss, on the contrary, confess, that there is in that, only open violence and hostilities, which cannot be reconciled with the ideas of those relations and duries which ought to take place among friends and confederates:

"Mean while, your Mightinesses, nor content with having offended all the Confederates, and us in particular, in every respect by su many hostilities, have carried things to that pirch, that, besides the continuance and augmentation of internal troubles, you have still occasioned disagreeable effects abroad, which exposed this state, at least one of its principal members, the Province of Holland itself, to the danger of being attacked by the arms of one of our most ger of being attacked by the arms of one of our most powerful and best inclined neighbours, and to be-come the theatre both of a civil war, and of misfortunes and destructions which we have to fear from tunes and destructions which we have to fear from the irruption of a foreign army.

"Your High Mightinesses must also agree, that this conduct is directly opposite to the 17th article of the Union, in which it has been decreed, "That these provinces, towns, and members of the same, shall be on their guard against furnishing any opportunity of war to foreign princes, lords, counstries, or cities," &c. And your High Mightinesses will not be able besides to accome it of injustice, as we consider all these instructions of its feared as harmony, which is the rice of points.

nesses will not be able besides to accuse in at injusted at harmony, which is the tie of unity, and the foundation of the prosperity of all the Republic, as so much the more offensive; esteeming above all he stopping of her Royal Highness, and the satisfaction resulted upon that account, as so much the more unanswerable, especially as you have been intreated and seriously exhorted, as well by the Lords of the States General, as by the greatest part of the confederates, to pay not only attention to the injustice and indecency of your resolutions and conduct, but especially to be induced to take measures more reasonable, and to grant the satisfaction desired.

"We most willingly own Mighty Lords, that it is very difficult for us, on such occurences, to chuse the proper steps, which might be considered as the most useful to the well-being of this province, and the whole Regulation. "In the state of the Umon, bring the province of Holland, and thereby the whole state, to the brink of its ruin; and we know the power which is granted by that we was a sufficient of the Umon, bring the province of Holland, and thereby the whole state, to the brink of its ruin; and we know the power which is granted by that we was a sufficient of the Umon, and particularly in the province of your High Mighrinesses, dissention, disorder, deprivation of manners, the annihilation of all the branches of general prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general prosperity. neral prosperity, that even without a war from a foreign power, we must expect a total ruin, and a general suppression, and we understand, the interest and right which your Mightinesses, the other confederates, and we ourselves have to provide against it derates, and we ourfelves have to provide against, it in the strongest manner, by a combined power, and by every means possible.

"But, as we hope religiously to sorbear from every reciprocal hostility, and especially from every infraction of the Union, so far as the general interest will allow in any manner more mild means, we have thought that we might delay for the present all deliberation or deliberations upon more serious measures, until we have deliberated farther with the other consederates. However, as the necessity of it may be accelerated by the approach of a foreign army, our duty is to represent to you, and recommend once more, in the most urgent and most serious manner, to resect on the consequences which may ensue from your obstinacy in a design and a conenfue from your oblinacy in a defign and a con-dust which nourish mutual discontent among the Bourgeois, which furnishes new reasons for that capital fource of reciprocal violence and pillage, which banishes confidence and good order from all parts of government and the army, which daily divides more and more the confederates, and might even render impossible to us the preservation of all the duties of the Union, by the approach of a foreign army to-wards our frontiers. At fame time, we do not mean to withdraw ourselves from the smallest obligation to which we confider ourselves tied down, even with respect to your Mightinesses although we have been affronted by you, unless we are forced to it by your own conduct.

"We therefore, once more, repeat our ferious exhortations, that your High Mightinesses will he-fixate no longer to save yourselves and the whole state, as well by a speedy satisfaction of the injury done to her Royal Highness, as by immediately concerting the measures which are the most proper to rectify those done to any one whatever, and to reanimate mutual confidence over all the republic ; protesting, at the same time, if our representation are still fruitless, to leave your High Mightinesses alone answerable for all further hurtful consequences, from whatever fide they may come, upon the province of Holland and West Friesland. With which," &c. &c.

FROM THE LONDON PAPERS, Sept. 12. Paris, Sept 8. The remonstrance of the Parliament of Dau hine is just published at Grenoble. It cannot, properly speaking, be called a remonstrance, but rather a fet of spirited resolutions entered into their Parliamentary Transactions. The substance of it is, That the late Royal mandate, which exiled the Parliament of Paris, was against the spirit of the law. That such a step deprived the nation of having their rights and properties defended and protected by the Magistrates appointed to administer justice.

That furely the orders for banishing them were forreptitiously obtained from the best of Kings by fome ill-defigning men, and the worst counsellors that ever difgraced a throne. That the same laws which insure the crown to the Monarch, insure likewise the property of the

That the circulation of the Royal revenues, which amount to almost fix hundred millions, is but flowly moving, and instead of benefiting the distant provinces, it generally ftops in the capital, and en-riches a few felf interefted individuals.

That the mifery of the people is really incredible, and that new imposts would only aggravate the dif-order, and make the wounds deeper.

That the present situation of affairs requires, that a general affembly of the Three States be convened; and that it is only the States, in general, that can grant and determine new subsidies.

That in 1339 it was resolved at a general assembly, before the Monarch, that no poll-tax or other duties can be levied in France, not even in case of utility or necessity, without the consent or grant of the Three States lawfully assembled.

That if, from that epoch, Parliament have regiflered the Monarch's arrets, &c: it was only for the fake of providing for immediate and urgent wants, and for diminishing the national debt.

That fince the affembly of the Notables, in the Royal Treasury, by economies, retrenchments, and other articles, upwards of feventy millions had been faved, and yet there still subsisted an enormous deficiency of 140 millions per annum.

That they cannot imagine how 900 millions could be diffipated in fo few years, viz. during M. de Calonne's administration, besides the usual annual revenues. &cc.

That it is necessary to inflict an exemplary ponishment on the defaulter of the public money.

And that his Majesty should condescent to affemble the Three States General, in order to find proper means to extricate the nation from their diffres-ful and alarming fituation.

High Mightinesses the satisfaction the King his Mafter feels, on hearing of the defire that feveral pro-vinces have expressed to avail themselves of the good fervices of thole powers, who are friends and ne bours of the Republic, for appearing the inteffine animofities, and preventing the dangerous confequences that may result therefrom. His Majesty is in particular well satisfied with the request of the States of Gueiderland and Otrecht, totads his mediation to that of the Courts of Verfailes and London, to which he readily affenrs; and has ordered me to affure your High Mightinesses, that he will willingly take upon himself every thing that can be done on his part, for that purpose.

His Majetty will zealously concur thereto with the fame fentiments which he has ever flewn to the Republic, and which are manifetted by the conduct of your High Mightineffes towards him.

"The King has commanded nie a-new, to affure your High Mightinesses, that he will upon all occasions interest himself for the peace and welfare of the States; and anxiously wishes, that the old constitution, fo unfortunately shaken, may be restored by a friendly disposition, in rooting out the evil that must otherwise result therefrom, and with which the Republic is threatened. The Princes Royal's birth day, is on the 29th instant. It is to be kept a Windfor with great spendor, on account of her Loyal Highness being

Mr Gilbert, Secretary to Mr. Eden in his commercial embaffy at Paris, goes in the fame character with that gentleman to the Court of Madrid.

The firmness of the Parliament of Paris, affifted by the firong and unanimous concurrence of all the others, feems at length to have prevailed. The language of the Court becomes every day more con-ciliatory, by being less dicatorial. When a people become acquainted with their own weight in the scale of government, and submit themselves to the guidance of the most wise and experienced members of the community, a stop is effectually put to the career of despotism Advices are faid, with authority, to have been reived from Sir Robert Keith, K. B. informing his Majefty's Ministers, that the Porte had actually declared war against the Russians. There has been a rumour for some days of this event having taken place, and the involved case of the two powers has given it probability. In the prefent perplexed flate of things, however, we are not ready to receive any report, however authoritatively delivered, with implicit confidence. The accounts from Vienna fay, The Ottoman Ministry, on the 26th of July, invited M. de Bulgakow to a conference, at which the Reis Effendi presided, and delivered the fix following articles in the form of requifitions:

1. As they had found by experience, that the Conful, whom the Court of Russia had established in Moldavia, was a restless and curbulent man, who endeavoured by every means to embroil the two empires, his Highaels absolutely infilted on his being obliged to leave the Ottoman States without delay.

2. As the troubles which had fublifted for two rears in Georgia, and had occasioned so many complaints, had evidently refulted from the protection granted by the Empress to Prince Herachus of Georgia, contrary to the spirit of treaties, and diametrically opposire to the political connections which had fublished for some time, and which still should Subsist between the Sublime Porte and Georgia, it was just that Russia should give orders for her troops to abandon Teflis and its environs, and to retire fo far back as would be requifite to re-establish the tranquillity of that country.
3. The Russian vessels that pass by Constantinople, having always on board subjects of the Ottoman empire, who were incessantly seduced; and besides, that the crews being in general guilty of conveying prohibited merchandize, his Highnels requires, that they all be vifited without exception.

4. The Sublime Porte having been informed with certainty, that the Prince Alexander Maurocordato, who in the beginning of February had escaped from Yari, had been sheltered in Russia, where he had been practifing all forts of machinations against his lawful Sovereign, demands that he be given up.

5. He requires a supply of falt from the Russians to the Turks of Oclakow, according to their wants. 6. His Highness requires the establishment of agents in the Russian States, for the protection of the commerce of his fubiects.

The Russian Minister flatly refused the 2d and 4th of thefe articles; and added, that he was permitted to write upon the subject to his Sovereign. He faid the same of the 5th; and as to the last, he begged that it might be taken ad referendum, as he had not fussicient instructions on that head. As to the 3d, M. de Bulgakow infifted, that visiting the cargoes was contrary to the fubfilling treaties, and that his Court would never permit it This conference lasted for a considerable time; but that which the Russian Minister demanded and obtained, on the 30th of July, with the Reis Effen-di, was much shorter; for M. de Bulgakow was not permitted to infift on the pretentions of his

This morning Mr Pitt came to town, and immediately went to Lord Carmarthen's office, where there was a Cabinet meeting held.

Our Miniters have frequent private conferences with the Dutch and Proffian Ministers, on the fubject of Holland, and, indeed, so frequent are the meetings of the Cabinet on this important Subject, that none of the Ministry have been twenty-four hours absent from London for some months past, unless health required a short recess. The attention of his Majesty to the affairs of the continent, is highly fpoken of as befitting the King of Great Britain, concerned left the nation should be embroiled in foreign disputes militaken the Duke of Bruntwick, who is commander of an army destined against the Dutch patriots, for the Duke of Brunswick, whom the Dutch obliged to leave the fervice of the Prince of Orange about three years fince. This mistake arifes from the inaccuracy of the foreign newspaperwriters. The Duke of Brunfwick, who is commander of the Prussian troops, is the reigning Duke Charles William Ferdinand, a General in the King of Prussia's service, and brother in-law to the King of Great Britain. The other is Louis, brother to the late Duke of Brunswick Wolfenbuttle, who was guardian to the Stadtholder during his minority, and afterwards his principal Counfellor, till the Dutch obliged him to relign in 1784.

The Princess Confort to the Pretender, has ceafed to live with her husband. Her Highness and her Lord had for fome years lived apart, though not upon bad terms, for though the Pretender relided at Florence, she was patronized by her brothgrain in-law Cardinal York, who gave her leave to reside in his palace at Rome, while he himlelf was bishoprick at Frescati. The Princess, however, has lately quitted Rome, and is now at Paris, where the is not visited by any of the Pretender's relations. This Lady was a Princess before her marriage; her hame is Louisa Maximiliana, the is daughter to the late Prince of Stolberg Grudern, and grand-daugh ter by the mother's fide, to Thomas Bruce, who died Earl of Ailesbury; the is confequently a relation of her Grace the Duches of Richmond, and most of the principal nobility in England. She was born the 21st of September 1742, and married the 28th of March 1772 to Prince Charles Stuart, conmonly called the Pretender, who was in his 52d year at the time of his marriage. There is no illu of this union. The Prince's bears the same incognito title at Paris that her Lord does at Florence nito title at Paris that her Lord does at Pioresee; the is called the Countes of Albany. She has an elder fifter in Spain married to the Duke of Berwick and Liria; a descendant (by a natural so)

Yesterday, a duel took place in Hyde Park, between Sir J. Mac — and General B—. The parties met about seven o'clock in the morning and immediately proceeded to action. Each of the pricipals fired two piffols; but no other evil reluked from the engagement than Sir J ___'s receiving ball through the coat-pocket. The feconds the interfered, and the mifunderstanding was hopply adjusted. The gentlemen, after shaking hands very amicably, returned to town with their friend in their respective carriages, attended by their surgens.

Mestrs. Richardson, &c. have at length sinhed their furvey of the New Forest in Hampshire. It appears there are upwards of ninety-eight thousan acres of land in this forest. Situated as this nob forest is, it may be supposed that such a rail tract of land would fell for an immente fum; but then i must be remembered, that numbers of different de ferintions of persons have claims on this forest some a right or commonage, others a right to what and pear, and others again to out wood; and he as sew, from their official situation, a right " to set on the bucks that seed on the plain." All these claims must be purchased; and it is more than pro-bable that the whole sum the forest would sell for would not half fatisfy the delires of the claimants.

There is but a small quantity of good timber of the forest, very little indeed for for ship-building. The number of deer kept on the forest do no small injury to it as to its wood. The quantity of holle and whitethorn, which is fuffered to grow in order to feed the deer, is one cause why there is not proper fuccession of oaks. It will certainly be infinitely the most advantageous to this country to em ploy fome skilful men immediately to plant all the vacant spots. A considerable part of the forest in loofe black fand; this is not the most favourable for for oaks, but is very proper for the growth of Scotch and foruce firs, the larch and birch trees. And k is very probable that when the firs shall have made a good shelter, that oaks might then be planted to

On the night of the 16th uls. about eleven o'clock two men entered the house of Mrs Carrothers at Highland, near Abbylander Coaft, Cumberlas which stands at about 200 yards distance from any other house, and in which were only Mrs Carrathers and one child. One of the villains held drawn knife close to her face, swearing to dispato her the moment the made the least noise, while the other robbed the house of every thing of value the could possibly take away. They took a gold nog from her finger, and even flit her ears with an inention of cutting away the ear-rings the wore. They then tied her hands and feet, and after regaling themselves with such as the house afforded, left her in that fituation. Mrs Carruthers used erer effort to disengage herself, which, after some struggling, the accomplished, and immediately alarmed the neighbours, who, affished by that vigilant office of justice, Mr Thomas Wallis of Penrith, went of justice, Mr Thomas Wallis of Penriti, went pursuit of the villains, and apprehended them a Carlton, near that place, on Monday following, is company with two women, their accomplices. articles stolen, being chiefly wearing apparel, wer found upon them, and sworn to by Mrs Carrathen They were confequently all four committed to Can lifle goal.

Extract of a letter from Naples, Aug. 15.

By letters from Sicily we have a relation of carextraordinary eruption of Moons Erna, such a one as has not happened in the memory of man. A supplier profe and numberless little thocks of earthrumbling noise and numberless little shocks of earthquakes preceded this erruption; but on the 18th of last month, about three o'clock in the morning, 2 terrible volume of fire iffued from the mountain like a whirfwind, and of fuch a prodigious height, that it feemed as if the mountain was opened, and the column of fire appeared two thirds higher than the fummit. An immense cloud of smook preceded the fiame, the blaze of which was fo great that people could fee to read at 20 miles diffance; besides that a shower of fand, or calcinated lava, and stones of an enormous fize, were call to a prodigious height, and fell down again with a most terrible noise. Sulphureous ftones, lightnings, and horrible noise folphureous stones, lightnings, and horrible noise followed this dreadful eruption. The column of fire took its direction towards the Ionick sea to the eastward of the coast of the Morea, but at a certain distance it shifted towards Africa. We learn that the showers of fand and stones sell on the city and suburbs of Medina and Calabria, and on all the islands and aljacent coasts as far as Malta.

". All the ice and fnow on the tops of the mountains was melted, and fome perfons wounded by the stones which fell in the neighbouring countries. The inhabitants suffered from a suffocating finell of Sulphur and bitumen, and from the extreme heat of the air; all the produce of the earth, the olives, fruits, and Indian corn are burnt. A very curious instance of attachment in the feathered tribe has lately happened here. In a Gen-tleman's hen-house, New Town, two Turkey hens were fet to hatch their eggs; but it being thought necessary to separate them, one of the birds, with her nest, was removed to another hen-house. The other bird, after the feparation took place, was ob-ferved to be much dejected, and to have deferted her eggs. The fervant-girl, upon this discovery, and in order to prevent their being entirely lost, fell upon the expedient of removing tham to the nest of the other hen, and likewise the bird along with them. What is worthy of remark, both hirde ap-pear now perfectly fatisfied, and alternately fit upon the whole eggs, which are all placed in the fame

FOR THE CALEDONIAN MERCURY To the PROPRIETORS of the PRADE to led GREENLAND.

IT is plainly the meaning of the prefent law, by restricting the unsuccessful Greenland ships to remain until the oth of August, that they may be thereby under the necessity to exert themselves, and to prevent ships from making their appearance in these latitudes, merely to procure the bounty.— Upon the other hand, it is universally agreed, that fuch refriction, particularly in ftormy feafons, is very dangerous. We humbly prefume it would answer the same end, only to restrict until the 10th July, with this alteration of the law: "That if any "restel, fishing in the Greenland seas upon the " bounty, shall come home before the 10th At-" guft, without having on board the quantity of " blubber, agreeable to the law now in force, the faid vessel or vessels, shall not be at liberty to pro-" ceed upon any other voyage before the noth of September following." No veilel, in this cale. would be tempted, even in bad fillings, to come home and lie idle; nor can it be supposed, but they would all flay as long as the fafety of their veffels and lives might permit. It is exceedingly hard to Two years are necessary to pass through the above Course, force them, not to say worse, or for the law to regulate as it were the scasons in the north. We therefore, earnestly recommend to you, Gentlemen, to call a meeting, and to make such application to the legislature as may procure you redress. The present law is, in sact, a great hurt to this trade. We may easily foresee, that more adventurers will engage, when they are not forced to wreck their unfortunate fishers in Greenland. It is besides, preventing the very object that Government has in view, to keep the bounty low, which they never can do, while sew undertake the voyage; and we have not some as the state of six Guineas, higher opinion of your ideas of trade; than to some as the state of six Guineas, per quarter.

ceive it would be any hiedrance of your application, that it might bring this fifhing to the highest degree of striky, without expense to Government. If the number of fish caught decrease the price, it will increase the demand—it will increase the number of season, it will lower their merchants. ber of feamen—it will lower their wages both in war and peace.—The bounty cannot be lowered without confent of the proprietors of the fifthing; because, if these do not not find their advantage in the fifthery without it. Government must continue it.

FOR THE CALEDONIAN MERCURY. T must have given pleasure to every one of your readers to observe the account given in one of your fate papers, of the flourishing state of the trade and manufactures of Scotland at this time. Among other branches of manufacture lately introduced into this country, you mentioned the cotton mills. The cotton mill lately erected at Gatehouse in this neighbourhood, has been already taken notice of in your paper; and it cannot fail of being acceptable to the public, to be affured of the great fuccess of that manufacture. Three years ago the village of Gate-house was poor, idle, wretched, and upon the point of being deserted by its inhabitants. It is now, comparatively speaking, wealthy, industrious, and the population encreasing so fast, that houses cannot be got crected in time to accommodate the influx of new inhabitants; and, independent of the great advantage to the village of Gatehouse, we form the highest expectations of advantage from the cotton mills to all this part of the country, being the intro-duction of an important branch of manufacture into a large district of country, where manufactures were almost entirely unknown, and scarcely thought of. Besides the spinning branch, which it is believed is already brought to a considerable degree of perfec-tion, weaving is lately begun, and several looms are already going; and in the course of a few years, we hope to see the whole process of the course manuhope to fee the whole process of the cotton manufacture carried on, and diffused through the country. The Mess. Birtwhistles have certainly great merit in introducing this valuable manufacture; and we hope their laudable example will be followed by other gentlemen of fortune and public spirit, several of whom we have lately got into this neighbour-

There is upon each of these estates an inexhaustible field of limeftone, and a great field of moss for peats; and there is a good lime kiln already built upon Killiechaffy.

The progrets of writs and conditions of roup, with ren-tals and plans of the lands, are to be feen in the hands of Robert Stewart, writer in Edinburgh; and for further par-ticulars apply to him, or to Alexander Nairne, accountant in Edinburgh, or Robert Stewart, Efq; of Clockfoldich, the factor, who will shew the grounds.

And, as a few of the CREDITORS of Mr STEWART FLEMYNG of Moness have not yet lodged their grounds of debt, and affidavits on the verity, with Mr Nairne, truftee appointed by him for behoof of his creditors, they are requested to do fo without delay; and as some of the creditors. tors have only fent their affidavits to Mr Nairne, they are also defired to lodge their grounds of debt likewise, otherwise they cannot be ranked in the division. GODBOLD's Vegetable BALSAM.

A MOST EXTRAORDINARY CASE.

EVERAL years ago I was feised with a violent hooping-cough, which fettling on my lungs, brought me into a very low and dangerous flates, my-health had been declining fome years, and at laft I was to bad as to be given over by my relation. Dr Turton (physician to the Queen's house. my relation. Dr Turton (physician to the Cheen's nonne-hold) as well as by others of the Faculty. For five weeks I was unable to get out of bed, and for a long time fpit bloody ulcerated matter. I had an entire loss of appetite, and rewas unable to get out of beed, and for a long time fpit bloody ulcerated matter. I had an entire loss of appetite, and received no nourithment but by means of a tea-pot. In flort, I was in a confirmed Confumption, my flesh being so wasted that my bones were obliged to be bound to keep them in the sockets; which, however incredible, can be well testified. In this situation, I had the good fortune to be recommended to Mr Godbold. After taking his Medicine for some time, the spitting of blood and matter abated, and my appetite returned, and I received strength; and in the course of eight weeks, to the surprise of every one who knew my dangerous state, I recovered; and have now the happiness to declare, that I enjoy a good state of health; in duty, therefore, to the Public, as well as to him, I deem it necessary to certify the above, as I am confident that Ms Medicine, with God's affishance, saved my life.
